tested in the same manner, although not so often in all cases. One of the products in which a great change has been wrought is clive oil. When the commission began its work it ound that all of the cheaper so-called olive oils were nothing more or less than cotton seed oil. Now these oils are labeled just what they are, and what is sold for olive oil is a pure article.

Good Work for Harms.

The commission has at the St. Louis exposition an exhibit of many of the articles of food found adulterated here—an exhibit, by the way, which speaks volumes for the thorough work done in Utah in the matter of detecting impure foods and denying their admission to the State. the State.

Aside from his work for the State, Chemist Harms does a great deal of work especially for the city, an important part of it being tests for diphtheria germs, and frequent examination of the city's water supply. Mr. Harms has gained the reputation of being the foremost chemist in the intermountain country, and his work for the city and the State is sustaining well this reputa-

HARRY T. DUKE IS GRANTED PAROLE

Other Matters Are Passed Upon by the State Board of Pardons.

Harry T. Duke, who two years ago pleaded guilty to embezzling funds from the Wells, Fargo & Co. bank. while acting as a paying teller, and was sentenced to a term of four years in the penitentiary, was granted a parole by the State Board of Pardons at the monthly meeting held yesterday

The application of Mr. Duke had been before the board for a long time, but has been repeatedly continued from time to time until yesterday, when he and his friends brought the matter to a test, with the result that he was granted a parole.

The applicant for a pardon was W. E. Burton, Jr. He was sentenced by Judge Morris on January 6, 1903, wo years in the state prison for grand arceny. Last month his case cought up before the board, out was ontinued until yesterday, when it was gain continued. The board also considered a score of applications for parole and commuta-tion of sentence without acting favor-ably for the petitioners.

In the case of George W. Long, assault with a deadly weapon, application for parole was continued. Long was sentenced by Judge Chidester, on January 20, 1902, to serve a term of twenty years.
Albion K. P. York's application for commutation of sentence was denied. The applicant was sentenced by Judge Booth, of Prove, on July 8, 1901, to serve five years for voluntary manlaughter. John Edward Richardson, commonly known as "Razor Jack's," application for parole was denied. He was sen-tenced September 20, 1903, by Judge C.

W. Morse to serve two years in prison for grand larceny. Wilkinson Kurwin's and Robert Lister's applications for commutation of sentence were continued. These men were sentenced by Judge Rolapp at Ogden on July 9, 1963, to serve five years for highway robbery.

C. B. Henry's application for com-mutation was denied. +++++++++++++++

After twenty-seven years of married life, Abram N. Randolph seeks a divorce from his wife, Katile E. Randolph, and for this purpose he filed a complaint in the Third District court yesterday afternoon. According to the complaint, the plaintiff and defendant were married at Eureka, in the State of Nevada. February 25, 1877, and as a result of that marriage there was born one child, Samuel N. Randolph, now more than 21 years of age. The plaintiff charges that on or about May I. 1862, his wife, "disregarding the solemnity of her marriage vows, wilfully and without cause deserted and abandoned the finiantiff and has continued to live separate and apart from him, without any sufficient cause or reason." On these grounds the plaintiff prays that the bonds of matrimony between himself and the defeudant be dissolved and that the contract be forever annulled.

SETTLEMENT IS TO BE DEFERRED

Russia and England Will Wait.

Czar's Advisers Not Inclined te Take Up Question at Present.

War With Japan Is the Principal Cause for Wanting Matters Delayed.

LONDON, July 16.-The Associated Press learns that there are no attempts at present to settle all the questions pending between Russia and Great Britain. The foreign office has received from Sir Charles Hardinge, the British Embassador to Russia, the Russian answer to its representations, in which the St. Petersburg government regrets its inability while the war with Japan is in progress, to undertake such important negotiations, but when peace is restored she will be willing to do so, provided circumstances permit.

The exchanges were made in a thorough cordial spirit and the Associated Press is informed by a high British official that the Russian government made clear that the foreign offices understand the disinclination of Emperor Nicholas's ministers to embark into a discussion of the Indian. Persian or other Far-Eastern questions, settlement of which Sir Charles Hardinge sought. Is Not a Rebuff. This is in no sense a rebuff. As natter of fact, it is learned that the Emperor's advisers are as anxious as Great Britain that the most friendly relations be maintained between the two countries. There is no intention of taking any action which might cause a change of attitude on the part of the British, which has been regarded up to this time officially correct. In this connection it is stated there is no repre-sentation of any serious question arising from the operations of the Russian auxillary cruisers in the Red sea, although it is known that the British government has determined to protest against the action of the St. Peters burg in holding up British merchant-

No Violation of Treaty Permitted. Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, in alks with the Russian Embassador, has stated in a way to admit of no doubt, that the British government would not permit a violation of the treaty of Berlin, in respect to the closure of the straits of the Dardanelles to warships. On the other hand, Russia has stated in equally emphatic terms that she has no intention of dispatching any war vessels through the straits, and diplomats familiar with the situ-ation in the Balkans say that while they do not believe there is danger of international trouble there. Russia's own interests demand the presence in abusive language." The plaintiff further alleges that, against his wish and in spite of his protest. "Florence Süberstein repeatedly and persistently engaged in playing cards for money, and in other ways spont money carclessly and recklessly until the plaintiff was injured and broken up in his business." In the presence of friends and neighbors, it is charged, she has said she wished he was dead and buried, for she did not and never would like him. Silberstein declares that such acts, words and language coming from his wife have caused him great anguish of mind and mental distress, and that their welfare demands a separation. At the present time Silberstein does not know of his wife's whereabouts or residence, but gives 2219 California street, Denver, Colo., as her last place of known residence.

DAY IN POLICE COURT.

William Carneil was accused of having stolen a gold watch, chain and charm from Eugene McCarthy. It turned out that McCarthy had given the watch to Carnell for safe-keeping, as he stated in court, and he was discharged.

Dan Conners, a miner, was charged with having put his wooden leg to dangerous uses. It was pointed out to him that it was meant to serve as a means of locomotion and not as a weapon of offense, especially not for smashing windows. He was fined $15.
